Munich University Summer Training in German and European Law (MUST)

July 4 - 29, 2022
www.must-misu.de

GENERAL

Munich University Summer Training (MUST) was founded in 2001 and is organized by the Faculty of Law of the Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität (LMU) in cooperation with the International University Club Munich (IUCM).

The programme aims to give a basic understanding of German Law and European Union Law.

The European Union is one of the largest economic areas in the world. Within the European Union, Germany is an important member in terms of both population and economic output. Doing business in Europe and Germany requires a thorough knowledge of the legal system and the norms and regulations governing the transaction in question. There is an increasing demand for foreign lawyers with a basic understanding of European and German law.

Lawyers with the corresponding background will be able to collaborate with German lawyers in cross-border transactions or to work in Germany. In addition, having an understanding of another legal system enhances the intellectual capabilities necessary for excellence both in legal practice and academia. German legal scholarship, in particular, is renowned for its systematic approach to law.

Last but not least, this programme will bring together excellent lawyers and law students from a variety of countries, providing the opportunity to create a network of programme alumni. The Faculty of Law at Munich University is eager to support a network of this kind.

OBJECTIVES

Law of Contracts

This course explores the German concepts and rules for the conclusion of contracts, mistake, pre-contractual duties and strategies for avoiding an unwanted contract. There will be a secondary focus on breach of contract and the system of remedies available in this case. The class will conclude with a discussion of special rules designed for the protection of consumers and electronic commerce.

Law of Property

This class is dedicated to analyzing the general principles of property law – among them the principle of abstraction as one of the most characteristic principles of German law. We will also discuss the functions, protection, and rights associated with the possession and ownership of property as well as the requirements on the transfer of property, including acquisition in good faith. Finally, the class will also briefly explore limited real rights to movable and immovable property.

Intellectual Property Law

This course will introduce participants to German and European Intellectual Property Law. The course will combine theory and law. In the first session, we will start with theoretical justifications of intellectual property and outline common principles thereof. In the later sessions, participants will gain an overview of the relevant black letter law in the three conventional IP subjects (patents, copyright, and trademark).

Constitutional Law

This course will impart basic knowledge of German governmental institutions, in particular constitutional review. This knowledge is necessary for understanding German law. The meaning and importance of fundamental rights will be discussed.

Law of Torts

Tortious liability is a part of general civil law, but is also inextricably intertwined with the insurance systems, social security schemes and general questions of risk allocation. This course will illustrate the basic structure of German tort law and will focus on some of its essential problems.

OBJECTIVES

Tax Law

These lectures will give a short introduction into German tax law, covering the constitutional prerequisites for taxation, an overview of income tax law, corporate tax law, inheritance tax law and value added tax. The second part will cover the basics of international and European tax law, including double taxation treaties.

European Union Law

The first part of the course on EU Law is designed to provide participants with a basic understanding of the institutional structure of the EU and of the fundamental features of the EU legal system. In the second part of the course, participants will review cases with the objective of understanding the application of EU law to economic transactions.

Corporate and Securities Law

This part of the course covers issues such as: forms of incorporation under German law; the stock corporation; the limited liability company; partnerships and companies; the law of corporate groups; takeovers, mergers and acquisitions; corporate restructuring; organization of the German securities market; the primary and secondary market. The material presented will focus not only on the relevant issues under German national law, but also under European Law (which is particularly influential in this area) as well as covering the underlying economic analysis and comparative aspects.

Competition Law

The course is concerned with the control of private economic power through the competition laws in the EU and in Germany. In particular, it will provide insights into the assessment of anticompetitive agreements, unilateral behavior of dominant firms as well as into the merger control.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

With an ambitious scope, we assume that MUST participants will be prepared to work hard both in class and in individual study.

Prerequisites for participation are a minimum of one year of legal training at a university. However, a law degree is not necessary.

Applicants need to have a very good command of written and spoken English. All MUST courses and lectures will be held in English and the exam is also expected to be written in English.

Even though we do not require students to upload language test results during the online application process, we urge students with poor language skills to abstain from applying. Professors will not be able to accommodate language difficulties. Knowledge of German is not a prerequisite.

After the programme has reviewed your application you might receive an email asking for proof that you have successfully completed an English-language test (e.g. TOEFL or IELTS). English native speakers don't need to provide an English-language test.

Notice:

All participants are required to have their own tablet or computer available for use in class. The MUST program cannot provide computers.

GRADES & CREDITS

The course counts for the ECTS system (6 credits).

The Academic Board of the LMU Munich defines the requirements and contact hours for successful completion of the courses as follows:

regular attendance (absence max 6 lessons)

preparation for and active participation in seminars

attendance and contribution to lectures

passing written exams

Transcripts

Every student will receive an official transcript after the successful completion of all program requirements. The transcript will show the course name and contact hours, the number of acquired credits as well as the achieved grades.

Credit Transfer

Most international colleges and universities accept credits from MISU LMU. However, each institution has its own policy regarding credit acceptance from other institutions. We strongly recommend that students consult their academic advisor and/or professor to receive credit transfer approval before applying to MISU Summer Academy. Students who would like to transfer credits to their home universities should print out all documents, contact the professor or study abroad advisor and ask for credit and grade approval.

Participants from the United States of America may petition their law schools for credit before the course starts.

TARGET GROUP
